Cuba Blasts

Gromyko Warns Against Attack; Gets Quick Reply

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union sounded a warning Friday in the United Nations that U.S. attack on Cuba means war. The United States promptly replied that the Soviet Union is threatening peace by supplying military aid to Cuba.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko delivered the warning in a major policy speech to the U.N. General Assembly in which he lashed out at President Kennedy and U.S. policy toward Cuba.

GETS ANSWER

He got an immediate answer from Adlai E. Stevenson, the chief U.S. delegate.

In words directed at both Gromyko and the Cuban representatives in the assembly, Stevenson said:

"We are not taking and will not take offensive action in this hemisphere, neither will we permit aggression in this hemisphere."

He declared that the right of the United States to defend its security is "anchored in the U.N. charter."

"The threat to peace in Cuba comes not from the United States but from the Soviet Union," he said.

"The threat arises from the extraordinary and unnecessary flood of Soviet arms and military personnel pouring into Cuba. It is this foreign military intervention in the Western Hemisphere which is creating grave concern not only in this country, but throughout the hemisphere."

"For what purpose is this great military buildup in Cuba intended?" he asked.

"If the Soviet Union genuinely desires to keep the peace in the Caribbean let it stop this warlike posturing, this stuffing of Cuba with rockets, military aircraft, advanced electronic equipment and other armament all out of proportion to any legitimate needs."

Gromyko accused some U.S. political leaders of displaying a "flippant attitude" to the question of war and peace in regard to the situation in Cuba.

Bonn Pact

On Arms Is Signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — West Germany has signed a two-year agreement to spend $600 million a year for U. S. arms and use of U. S. military supply facilities in a move to help offset America's big dollar outlays abroad, it was announced Friday.

Disclosing the new arrangement, Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatric also said a major effort was under way to sell France and Italy $375 million in weapons and equipment and to engage in joint military research with those countries.

Gilpatric returned this week from 10 days of conferences with French and German defense officials in Paris and in Bonn.

Gilpatric denied reports that America had sought to get Bonn to build larger military forces than present plans called for.

He acknowledged that new arrangements with France would "indirectly" aid President Charles de Gaulle in building a French nuclear force.

The sign of this came some weeks ago when the United States sold France 12 C-135 jet tanker planes for $50 million for use with Mirage nuclear bombers.

The United States would like to sell $50 to $75 million more to France if possible, but Gilpatric declined to say what items were on the proffered list.

The deputy defense chief said that he and Strauss signed the new agreement for West German purchases, subject to the terms of the 1964 West German defense budget.

Refugee Falls Under Gunfire

BERLIN (AP) — East German border guards fired several bursts from tommy guns Friday at a refugee trying to escape to the West through barbed wire border fortifications in the north of Berlin, police reported.

The refugee collapsed some 30 yards from the border before reaching the barbed wire entanglements. Police said he shouted "don't shoot" and "help, help" several times.

Police said they could not see whether the man had been hit by the guards' bullets. He was carried away later.

Downtown Buenos Aires, one of Latin America's largest cities, was emptying out. Storekeepers ran down steel shutters and people flocked to their homes.

Buenos Aires' International Airport was ordered closed to all international commercial flights.

Loyalist forces issued their defiance of the rebels in a communiqué from the War Secretariat, saying "the hour of supreme decision has arrived."

The communiqué, in an apparent reference to Guido, charged that high level delaying tactics gave the rebels time to consolidate and attack loyalist forces.

Solons Bar Troops Use Amendments

House Action On Fight Resolution Due Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders blocked Friday any rewriting of the congressional "fight-if-we-must" resolution on Cuba.

They won a rule barring amendments when the resolution comes up for House action next Wednesday, despite demands by some members that tougher language be used toward the Communist rulers in Moscow and Havana.

PASSED BY SENATE

This means the House will vote on the same resolution passed Thursday by the Senate as part of the move to convince the world of this nation's solid determination to use whatever means are needed to prevent Communist aggression from its Cuban base against any neighbor.

The Rules Committee action came as the Kennedy administration sought to shake off what Secretary of State Dean Rusk called a "straitjacket" amendment the House inserted in the foreign aid bill.

"It's very important that this amendment come out," Rusk told reporters.

He referred to a House rider designed to cut off U.S. aid to any country whose ships carry goods of any kind to Cuba. It was attached to the administration's foreign aid appropriation shortly before the House approved the bill Thursday night.

The secretary went before a closed session of the Senate Appropriations Committee to seek restoration of funds cut out of the bill by the House.

The House also adopted an amendment aimed at nations whose vessels carry arms or strategic materials to the Castro regime.

If the Senate refuses to accept the amendments, the issue will have to be resolved in a Senate-House conference.

This is what House leaders hope to avoid with the congressional resolution of warning that the United States will not permit aggressive use of the Soviet-sponsored military buildup in Cuba.

Three Persons In Restaurant Killed By Auto

NEW YORK (AP) — An auto went out of control Friday night off crowded Times Square and crashed through the plate glass window and into a restaurant. Three persons were killed and five injured.

The car, driven by Paul Bonadio of Fort Lee, N.J., struck down one victim as it hurtled the sidewalk, and dragged his body with it into Rosoff's Restaurant on West 43rd Street.

The other victims were a patron at the bar inside and a waiter. After the accident, the block between Sixth Avenue and Broadway was barricaded to traffic as thousands of onlookers were attracted to the scene.

Victims were identified from papers in their pockets as Edward Pell, of the Bronx; Mike Cort, a salesman in a clothing store around the corner on Broadway; and Irving Nash, 55, a waiter who lived in Little Neck, Queens.

The injured were in a dining alcove just inside the window of the restaurant.

Another Fall Day Predicted

The weatherman continues in his nice vein, predicting a nice weekend, particularly today. He says that the temperatures will be mild under mostly clear skies with the high today expected to be somewhere between 80 and 84 degrees.

The low tonight will be from 60 to 64 degrees.

Friday was also a pleasant fall day with the high recorded at 82 degrees and the low noted at 51.

Dodd Gets Backing Of Board

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Board of Education solidly backed president William J. Dodd Friday by reaffirming a trade school desegregation pact forced by the federal courts, and challenging any educator present to speak up if he disagreed.

State Education Supt. Shelby M. Jackson, who said earlier this week he knew nothing of the pact after a legislative segregation committee criticized Dodd, remained silent during the board action.

"Speak now or forever hold your peace," said Dodd, just before he directed Jackson, the board secretary, to call the roll.

A bare six-member quorum was present, but it voted unanimously for a key resolution which directed six state trade schools under federal desegregation orders to handle applications without regard to race.

Later, after the board meeting, when pressed for comment, Jackson issued this statement:

"I am not a member of the State Board of Education and I do not have a vote on the board. I stand on my previous statements."

Senator Soaper Says

Russian arms in Cuba are said to be only of the defensive kind. In spite of science, armament hasn't changed so much. We suppose the cave-men distinguished between an offensive club and a defensive club.

Still another stylist complains because men's clothes aren't colorful enough. He should see our old blue serge, the one that's turning green along the seams.

It hardly seems fair — the major-league ballplayers get to spend the fall and winter running bowling alleys or going hunting, while the little leaguer's only reward is to go back to school.

Television has now been around so long that we saw an old movie the other night where the characters were watching it.

4,070 State Aid Grants Are Okayed

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Financial Assistance Commission okayed another 1,365 grants in aid allocations Friday, bringing the total approved to 4,070.

Rep. Lantz Womack of Franklin Parish, vice chairman of the three-man commission, gave the latest figures.

All but one of the 4,070 approved so far are for students to attend 31 private, nonsectarian schools in the greater New Orleans area.

NEW SCHOOL

A total of 67 applications was approved for the first private school outside the general New Orleans area—the Lake Charles Christian Institute.

Louisiana provides a total of $360, or $2 daily, for students to attend private, segregated schools of their choice if they want to leave desegregated schools.

Last week, the commission announced it had approved the first 2,705 grants.

Two of the latest series of applications approved include 70 at the Bush elementary school, and 15 at the Faith School for Retarded Children—both private schools for Negroes. The grants in aid law is not limited to white students.

In addition to the Lake Charles institution, and the two Negro schools, the latest grants in aid approved for white students include:

Ferncrest 19, Ecole Classique 47, Connor-Parkview 5, Fun Time elementary 3, Garden District Academy 4, Clifton 1, Gauss 29, New Orleans Academy 49, Lakeview 24.

Junior Academy of New Orleans 101, Metairie Park Country Day 38, Stuart School 12, Ridgeview 22, Marjorie Walters 7, First Educational Co-op 56, Rural Pri-Carre 7.

JOINT EXPERIMENT

U.S. To Launch 1st Canadian Satellite

WASHINGTON (AP)—The civilian space agency said Friday it will be taking some new steps when it launches into earth orbit soon a Canadian-made spacecraft to study the ionosphere.

The spacecraft, the Alouette, is the first to be designed and built by a nation other than the United States or the Soviet Union. It is named for a high-flying songbird of the lark family which inhabits most of Canada.

It will be the first orbital attempt from Point Arguello, Calif., by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

It will be NASA's first use of the two-stage Thor-Agena B vehicle—to launch a satellite into orbit.

The joint U.S.-Canadian experiment will be attempted some time after next Wednesday, NASA said. The aim is to put the Alouette into a near-circular orbit of about 600 mile altitude around the earth.

The Canadian satellite project is part of the "Topside Sounder Program" to be carried out under NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center at Greenbelt, Md. The Alouette and the U.S.-sponsored SAGE, to be launched later this year, will support each other in ionospheric investigations.

The spheroid-shaped Alouette will conduct four experiments. Three will be for the defense research telecommunications establishment near Ottawa and the fourth will be for Canada's National Research Council.

The main effort will be to be a year-long project to measure the ionosphere change daily with the time of day and latitude. Two other experiments will measure the radio noise that appears to originate in outer space and the radio noise produced within the ionosphere itself.

The judge held that "all powers were vested solely and conclusively in the board of trustees and not direct officials of the university."

The faces of the three defendants—Chancellor John D. Williams, Liberal Arts Dean Arthur B. Lewis, and Registrar Robert Ellis—broke into wide smiles when the judge ruled at the end of a three-hour hearing.

CROWD WARNED

The crowd of about 300 in the courtroom, warned in advance by the judge to leave if they felt they couldn't restrain any show of emotion, took the decision quietly.

The 13 members of the State College Board—named by the judge as the ones with the real power in the matter—are scheduled for a hearing themselves on contempt charges in the 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans Monday.

In Washington, the Justice Department said it will ask the circuit court to include the three university officials "along with the university trustees in the order to show cause why they should not be held in contempt for refusing to register Mr. Meredith."

The Justice Department moved against both groups—the three school officials and the trustees—in the wake of Gov. Ross Barnett's refusal to register the 29-year-old Negro Friday.

Barnett, clothed in the authority of the state college board and acting as registrar, handled the matter.

Schirra's Orbit Trip Set Back

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Troubles in the "Sigma 7" space capsule Friday forced postponement of another five days in the planned orbital flight of astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr.

The launch, which tentatively had been set for Sept. 23, has been rescheduled for "no earlier than Oct. 3," the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) said.

Technicians discovered problems in a selector valve in the capsule's attitude control system during pre-flight preparations Friday, officials said.

The attitude control systems governs the movement of the bell-shaped Mercury capsule during orbit and is particularly critical for getting the spacecraft into position for the blazing return through earth's atmosphere.

Schirra, 39-year-old Navy lieutenant commander, hopes to make six orbits of earth—twice as far as any previous American astronaut.

Still ahead of the technicians are the final days of critical checkouts of the extremely complex Mercury space cabin and its seven miles of wiring, and the Atlas booster with its more than 300,000 separate parts.

If all goes according to plan, Schirra will thunder into space on the morning of Oct. 3 from here and land 10 hours later in the Pacific near Midway Island.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

The whole course of the Civil War changed on Sept. 22, 1862. President Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation that day and the war that the North had waged for preservation of the Union now became also a crusade for the abolition of slavery.

Few realized it then but the proclamation blueprinted the doom of the Confederacy.

The Confederates were tagged from that day on as fighting to preserve slavery. Hopes for intervention by Great Britain and France to break the bloody struggle were dashed.

The proclamation was a war measure, pure and simple. Actually President Lincoln's signature struck no shackles from any slave anywhere.

The key paragraph in it read: "That on the first day of January in the year of our Lord eight hundred and sixty-three, all persons held as slaves within any State, or designated part of a State, the people whereof shall then be in rebellion against the United States, shall be then, thenceforward and forever free; the executive government of the United States, including the military and naval authority thereof, will recognize and maintain the freedom of such persons, will do no act, or acts, to impress such person, or any of them, in any efforts they may make for their actual freedom."

Slaves in the border states and in Confederate territory held by the Union remained slaves. Slaves held inside the Confederate States — technically freed by the proclamation — remained in bondage because the North could not enforce its orders there.

Secretary of State William H. Seward summed it up by saying that it emancipated slaves where it could not reach them and left them in bondage where it could have set them free.

The proclamation had three immediate effects:

1. Every advance of Union armies into the South after Jan. 1, 1863, meant that slaves in that area were liberated, giving every advance the aspect of a crusade.
2. Word of the proclamation filtered into the farthest corner of the Confederacy by word of mouth or by slaves' eavesdropping on their masters' talk. Escapes mounted until Union commanders were hard put to feed and shelter the refugees.
3. The proclamation put the United States on record as committed to the abolition of slavery in the eyes of the world. In all national honor there could be no turning back now.

The effect on British opinion was even better than Lincoln had hoped.

The London Morning Star said the proclamation was "the turning point in the history of the American Commonwealth — an act only second . . . to the Declaration of Independence."

West Monroe Tax Returns Are Arriving

West Monroe City Clerk Harold Hill said Friday payments of city taxes were arriving at his office "very well." He declined, however, to speculate on the amount of those payments.

"I won't be able to tell anything for sure until the end of the month," explained the clerk. "But a lot of payments have been coming in since our statements were mailed out a week ago last Thursday."

Bills for taxes were sent at that time to 3,654 homes in the city. The first payments were coming in the next day, Friday.

West Monroe officials have declared their confidence in the capability of the city to meet a new deficit in its own payments, building since July 1. The taxes are counted on to do the job.

Alderman Earl Duncan said the city's bills, after payment of salaries, for July and August and partially through September came to around $17,000.

AEC Reveals Power Yield Of H-Bomb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. H-bomb that created a new radiation belt around the earth July 9 was equal in power to 1.4 million tons of TNT, the Atomic Energy Commission said Friday.

It also said the device was triggered at about 250 miles in space. The bomb created a radiation belt whose maximum intensity appears to be at about 2,500 miles. The crescent-shaped zone extends about 3,700 miles from north to south.

The United States plans to launch a satellite later this year that will try to determine whether the new belt is likely to interfere with manned flights to the moon later in his decade.

The July 9 explosion was part of the high altitude nuclear tests scheduled for Johnston Island in the Pacific. Some scientists expected it to spread high energy electrons around the earth, but they were amazed by its duration. "Traces may persist for 20 years,"

The AEC previously had refused to disclose the exact power yield of the bomb and the altitude at which it was detonated. It said it finally did so to help scientists "in their studies of high altitude nuclear detonations."

The test was the only successful shot in four attempts to stage nuclear explosions in space over Johnston Island. Difficulties with the tracking system and Thor Rocket spoiled the others. A Thor explosion on the pad July 25 finally forced temporary suspension of the series.

Repairs have been completed and testing will be resumed soon after the six-orbit space flight of astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. However, the astronaut's orbital path will be far below the "hottest" part of the new radiation belt.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

The whole course of the Civil War changed on Sept. 22, 1862. President Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation that day and the war that the North had waged for preservation of the Union now became also a crusade for the abolition of slavery.

Few realized it then but the proclamation blundered the doom of the Confederacy.

The Confederates were tagged from that day on as fighting to preserve slavery. Hopes for intervention by Great Britain and France to break the slowly strangling blockade dimmed. The proclamation gave the North a moral issue on which emotions could be whipped to a height impossible on the abstract and legalistic question of whether a state had the right to secede from the Union.

The proclamation was a war measure, pure and simple. Actually President Lincoln's signature struck no shackle from any slave anywhere.

The key paragraph in it read: "That on the first day of January in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and sixty-three, all persons held as slaves within any State, or designated part of a State, the people whereof shall then be in rebellion against the United States, shall be then, thenceforward and forever free; the executive government of the United States, including the military and naval authority thereof, will recognize and maintain the freedom of such persons, will do no act, or acts, to repress such persons, or any of them, in any efforts they may make for their actual freedom."

Slaves in the border states and in Confederate territory held by the Union remained slaves. Slaves held inside the Confederate lines also — technically freed by the proclamation — remained in bondage because the North could not enforce its orders there.

Secretary of State William H. Seward summed it up by saying that it emancipated slaves where it could not reach them and left them in bondage where it could have set them free.

The proclamation had three immediate effects:

1. Every advance of Union armies into the South after Jan. 1, 1863, meant that slaves in that area were liberated, giving every advance the aspect of a crusade.
2. Word of the proclamation filtered into the farthest corner of the Confederacy by word of mouth or by slaves eavesdropping on their masters' talk. Escapes mounted until Union commanders were hard put to feed and shelter the refugees.
3. The proclamation put the United States on record as committed to the abolition of slavery in the eyes of the world. In all national honor there could be no turning back now.

The effect on British opinion was even better than Lincoln had hoped.

The London Morning Star said the proclamation was "the turning point in the history of the American Commonwealth — an act only second . . . to the Declaration of Independence."

Before there had been a solid segment of pro-Confederacy opinion in England, especially among the ruling classes. Now the British government could not have intervened in the war even if it had wished.

Napoleon III of France was itching to intervene and pick up some territory in Mexico and Central America but was too weak to do so without Britain.

Some northern reaction to the proclamation was less favorable than Lincoln had hoped for. Six days after it was issued Lincoln wrote to Vice President Hannibal Hamlin:

"It is six days old, and while commendation in newspapers and by distinguished individuals is all that a vain man could wish, the stock shave declined, and troops come forward more slowly than ever. This, looked soberly in the face, is not very satisfactory."

Abolitionists and anti-slavery men hailed the proclamation. Horace Greeley, editor of the New York Tribune, wrote: "God bless Abraham Lincoln."

The Springfield, Mass., Republican, called the turn on Lincoln's timing.

"The President's action is timely — neither too soon nor too late."

Timing was all-important. Issuance too soon might have driven the border states into the Confederacy. Issuance too late might have permitted the Radical Republicans to force his hand with congressional action.

It remained for Ralph Waldo Emerson to pronounce the benediction.

"Great is the virtue of the Proclamation," he wrote. "It works while men are sleeping, when the army goes into winter quarters, when generals are treacherous or imbecile."

Maj. Gen. George B. McClellan, whose scratch victory at the battle of Antietam (Sharpsburg) had given Lincoln the peg to hang his proclamation on, wrote to a merchant friend, William H. Aspinwall of New York, asking what Aspinwall thought about the proclamation "inaugurating servile war, emancipating the slaves, and at one stroke of the pen changing our free institutions into a despotism."

Aspinwall, a Democratic politician as well as a merchant, advised McClellan to accept the proclamation "like a soldier." New York Democrats had been looking over McClellan as a possible presidential candidate in 1864 to run against Lincoln.

The proclamation posed for the Confederacy an insoluble question.

The only possible answer to Lincoln which would nail down the spreading idea that the Confederacy was fighting to maintain slavery, would have been a counter emancipation proclamation — that by Jan. 1, 1863 there would be no slaves in the South free. Another denial, piled on top of the many, would convince no one.

But Davis' hands were tied. To emancipate the slaves would have claimed for the Confederate government what it said it was fighting against — the right to control property, reserved to the states by the theory of state sovereignty.

A month after Lincoln's proclamation Davis called on Southern governors to prepare counter measures such as extension of the use of slaves of defenses and to perform as many army tasks as possible short of fighting.

The Confederate Congress later passed a law that would have called for execution of captured white officers of Negro troops. Lincoln promised retaliation and nothing ever was done about it.

Nor did the servile war, so confidently predicted by the Confederates, come to pass.

Gen. Benjamin F. Butler ordered William B. Mumford of New Orleans hanged for tearing down the U. S. flag from the Mint. The sentence was carried out June 7, 1862.

The Gatling gun, first practical machine gun, was invented in 1862 by Dr. Richard J. Gatling of Chicago. Some of them were used around Petersburg, Va., at the end of the Civil War.

West Monroe Tax Returns Are Arriving

West Monroe City Clerk Harold Hill said Friday payments of city taxes were arriving at his office "very well." He declined, however, to speculate on the amount of those payments.

"I won't be able to tell anything for sure until the end of the month," explained the clerk. "But a lot of payments have been coming in since our statements were mailed out a week ago last Thursday."

Bills for taxes were sent at that time to 3,654 homes in the city. The first payments were coming in the next day, Friday.

West Monroe officials have declared their confidence in the capability of the city to meet a new deficit in its own payments, building since July 1. The taxes are counted on to do the job.

Alderman Earl Duncan said of the city's bills, after payment of salaries, for July and August and partially through September came to around $17,000.

AEC Reveals Power Yield Of H-Bomb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. H-bomb that created a new radiation belt around the earth July 9 was equal in power to 1.4 million tons of TNT, the Atomic Energy Commission said Friday.

It also said the device was triggered at about 250 miles in space. The bomb created a radiation belt whose maximum intensity appears to be at about 2,500 miles. The crescent-shaped zone extends about 3,700 miles from north to south.

The United States plans to launch a satellite later this year that will try to determine whether the new belt is likely to interfere with manned flights to the moon later in his decade.

The July 9 explosion was part of the high altitude nuclear tests scheduled for Johnston Island in the Pacific. Some scientists expected it to spread high energy electrons around the earth, but they were amazed by its duration. Traces may persist for 20 years.

The AEC previously had refused to disclose the exact power yield of the bomb and the altitude at which it was detonated. It said it finally did so to help scientists "in their studies of high altitude nuclear detonations."

The test was the only successful shot in four attempts to stage nuclear explosions in space over Johnston Island. Difficulties with the tracking system and Thor Rocket spoiled the others. A Thor explosion on the pad July 25 finally forced temporary suspension of the series.

Repairs have been completed and testing will be resumed soon after the six-orbit space flight of astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. However, the astronaut's orbital path will be far below the "hottest" part of the new radiation belt.

Trustees Facing Similar Hearing For Mix Refusal

In turning away Meredith, he defied the orders of three federal courts—ranging all the way up to the U. S. Supreme Court—that Meredith must be admitted and 114 years of segregation at the institution must fall.

Despite the fact that the 64-year-old governor took it upon himself to reject Meredith's application, the Justice Department ignored him completely in aiming its legal counter-attacks. Instead it sought contempt citations against the persons actually named in the court order—the university officials and the board members.

The defense based its case on a contention that the three university officials were powerless to stop the rejection of Meredith—a contention the judge accepted.

"These men have not consciously disobeyed the court," attorney Fred B. Smith said at the outset of the hearing. "It was done by others, not by them."

He pinned the final decision on the governor: "He alone denied the admission."

Government attorneys, headed by Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. Burke Marshall, argued that the university officials "should have taken stronger steps to insure the registration of Meredith."

The officials, he said, "can be ordered not to rely on orders from their superiors and political factions, and take all necessary steps to register Meredith as a student."

Mize is the judge who three times denied Meredith a court order for admission to the University of Mississippi, and finally ordered it on direction of the 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Barnett, in an impassioned radio-television speech last week, promised to go to jail, if necessary, to preserve segregation at the university. And he said he thought all other state officials should do the same, or resign.

The courtroom in this southwest Mississippi city was packed with a crowd of about 300 before the hearing opened.

The crowd included former Gov. James P. Coleman and Mississippi Atty. Gen. Joe Patterson. About 14 Negroes were in the crowd.

When the three defendants walked into the court room the crowd burst into applause—then stopped abruptly, although no court official was seen signalling for silence.

The chancellor and the dean, Smith said, should be excluded from the charge because "they have no control over registration of any student."

UNICEF Aids Socialists

The United Nations, which is chiefly supported by the United States, despite a preponderance of communist - country votes, and some of its subsidiaries or conjunctive groups, is seemingly on the lookout for ways to assist questionable nations.

This was recently demonstrated anew in the case of Algeria. Within days of the announcement by Algerian leaders that they intended to create a socialist state, with close ties to Red China and Russia, the United Nations Children's Fund had ordered $670,000 in emergency aid to that country. Why a country should turn socialist if that means it immediately needs assistance for its children is a mystery.

Financial assistance was requested by the Algerian provisional government, the group of pro-communists which now dominates the strategic north African land.

UNICEF, in anticipation of the take-over, was all set to move quickly to help the socialist rulers of Algeria, for as early as July a UNICEF representative was in Algeria to study, according to the New York Times, "the settlement of displaced persons within the country and those returning from Tunisia and Morocco."

Actions of UNICEF should be borne in mind by the American people when local advocates of organization come around on Halloween to collect funds "for children," as they say. Those who believe in a free and democratic America should remember, at that time, that UNICEF is quick to rush assistance to socialist and communist countries but finds it difficult to hear the voices of children in the free world. Maybe the children in the free world are not as badly in need but, anyhow, who wants to send children's funds to our communist enemies who may be anywhere from 21 to 90 years of age?

UNICEF is presented as the most innocent of international agencies. "How could you possibly oppose a program that aims at helping children?" ask those who raise money for UNICEF. But that question - and the built-in reproach - avoids the real issue of UNICEF.

One may say that the Russian or Red Chinese governments "help children" to the extent that they supply food or medical supplies to their own populations. But that doesn't mean the American people should help pay the welfare or medical bills of the Russian or Chinese Communist governments. No one would have had the temerity to argue during World War II that the United States ought to have sent money to Nazi Germany to "help children" in the country ruled by Hitler.

It is no real help to children—and to the adults that they will become—to help fasten rulers on them that are dedicated foes of freedom. When UNICEF gives aid to "Algerian children," the net effect is to help impose a communist-type rule on Algeria. It would be of far greater lasting assistance to the innocent children of Algeria to deny assistance to the Algerian government. If the Algerian government were to collapse, then the children of that country would be truly aided.

It is this line of reasoning that is behind the American decision not to send food or money to the children of Red China. If the U.S. were to make such gifts, the barbarous communist tyranny would be in a stronger position. Thus, it is equally wrong for UNICEF to give money to the Algerians. And those Americans who contribute money to UNICEF - money that goes to Algeria—are aiding foes of freedom, the foes of the children of Algeria.

Moreover, when UNICEF money is sent to a communist country and it has gone to such countries in past years—the money is distributed by communist officials for communist objectives. The UNICEF allotment for Algeria will include soap, vitamin capsules, whole milk powder and emergency medical supplies. One would have to be mighty naïve to believe that pro-communist officials in Algeria will give any of these supplies to the hundreds of thousands of Algerians who cooperated with the French authorities. These supplies, one can be sure, will go to Algerian families that are loyal to their new socialist bosses—and to no others. Children of families who are opposed to communist domination of their countries will be left to suffer and die by the new rulers of Algeria. Thus, in giving money to Algeria, UNICEF will be helping discriminate against Algerians who are on the side of freedom.

There are many other actions of UNICEF that provide just cause for responsible citizens opposing its operations. The involvement in the financing of the U. N. war on anti-communist Katanga is in itself justification for refusing to contribute.

But the Algerian gift is a current development that should open the eyes of those who are willing to see the use to which charitable gifts are put by UNICEF officials.

It is to be hoped that Halloween this year will not be an occasion for requests for additional contributions to UNICEF in the name of "helping children." UNICEF, it can be seen, is more international politics, and against what we stand for, than for international charity.

Those citizens who want to make some charitable gift this Halloween need not become involved in the political activities of UNICEF. There are dozens of worthwhile charities in every community to which those who feel that Halloween is a time for giving can contribute.

One can help children who are in need, including those overseas, without helping pro-communist governments build new bases of strength.

Help With Groceries

Uncle Sam is looking for "guinea-pig" men of the house and is willing to help buy groceries for those who volunteer, or to cut down the cost.

The United States Public Health service wants the cooperation of 1,200 males, aged 45 to 54, residing in such cities as greater Boston, Baltimore, Minneapolis and Oakland, Calif. Looks as if they should also take in a city in the deep South. Food bills for the 300 chosen families in each of these communities can be reduced by about 20 per cent.

Dad's participation in this public health service investigation involves possible relationship between diet and heart disease. In each of the test areas, diets of the volunteers will be controlled and studied. Some volunteers will be placed on low-saturated fat regimens, some will get high polyunsaturated-fat menus and others will be on a drastically fat-restricted diet.

In a "Ways to Save Money" column, this was one of the offerings. It might be about as good as any, and there could be fringe benefits.

Around two million members of the nation's labor force suffer from alcoholism, costing American industry around $1 billion per year in absenteeism, reduced efficiency and increased accidents, according to the Florida Alcoholic Rehabilitation Program.

The lifetime quota of water usage for the average American is 3,500,000 gallons.

January Tax Cut Favored

Kennedy Fears Over-All Reform Formerly Planned For 1963 Might Become Bugged Down In Congress

President Kennedy is seriously considering shelving the highly publicized tax reform program that he planned to send to Congress in 1963.

He is now privately discussing with Democratic Congressional leaders the strategy of pushing for an immediate tax cut in January in hope of getting it through Congress quickly — preferably before next year's April 15 income tax filing deadline.

While no final decision has yet been made, this dramatic switch in plans is being carefully considered by the President for both economic and tactical reasons.

The President's Council of Economic Advisors headed by Walter Heller wants to rush the tax cut to stimulate the economy during the first quarter of 1963 to head off a sharp spring downturn in business.

Also, they fear that if the President sends his over-all tax reform bill to Congress with his tax cutting proposals, the entire tax package will get bogged down, just as this year's "pilot" tax reform proposal did.

Originally, it was the administration's plan to urge the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee to begin informal hearings on the President's tax reform proposals during Congress' winter adjournment.

However, this time-saving schedule has been junked because of the long legislative session, which isn't expected to end before Oct. 3, and a report from Representative Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman, that committee members are in no good mood to come back to Washington for the brief period between the November election and the opening of the new session of Congress in January. He revealed that a majority of the committee's 25 members are planning to take their long-delayed vacations at that time.

Treasury Secretary C. Douglas Dillon is opposed to this new strategy on the grounds that the tax cutting proposal is needed to sweeten the tax reform measure to get Congress to adopt the latter. He wants both proposals tied together in the same bill.

President Kennedy, while leaning toward splitting the tax package, is not expected to make a final decision until later this year. Already he has ruled out any special tax session this winter — unless there is an unexpected economic collapse.

However, the President has told Democratic congressional leaders that he will recall Congress if Khrushchev starts a new crisis over Berlin or Cuba. As reported in this column earlier this month, the showdown over Berlin is expected to come before December 1.

BEHIND THE SCENE—There is evidence that the U-2 spy plane, which the Chinese Communists claim they shot down, was the victim of sabotage or a mechanical failure.

Just before he disappeared over the mainland, the Chinese Nationalist pilot reported to his Taipei base that his high-flying plane was losing altitude because of an engine flame-out.

This is precisely what happened to U. S. Pilot Francis Gary Powers, whose U-2 plane was downed over the Soviet Union in May 1960. He had descended to about 40,000 feet because of a flame-out when his jet was hit from below.

The Central Intelligence Agency has never ruled out the possibility that Powers' U-2 plane was sabotaged. In fact, that agency's secret investigation of the incident turned up a number of security weaknesses involving the U-2 operation that have never been made public.

WATCHING THE FLEET—Assistant Secretary of State Frederick G. Dutton has reported to the Senate Armed Services Committee that "There is no legal basis for objecting to the operations of the Soviet fishing vessels off the New England coast."

In a letter sent to committee members, Dutton noted, "The Soviet fishing activity off New England is concentrated on Georges Bank, which is situated in international waters, well outside of the U. S. territorial sea. Georges Bank is therefore open to use by fishermen of all nations."

However, he assured the committee that the government was closely watching these Soviet activities, stating:

"The U. S. government is, however, keeping itself informed of these activities off our shores. They are being given constant attention by the defense agencies. Furthermore, the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries and the U. S. Coast Guard monitor the fleet's activities in connection with their duties relating to fishing activities. The U. S. government is quite aware of the possible use of these fishing vessels for espionage or military purposes; you may be sure that these aspects are being given due attention."

Dutton also revealed that the Coast Guard is seeking White House approval to establish a full-time fisheries patrol next year to permit 24-hour surveillance of Soviet ships operating in these waters.

Raising Ceiling

People Advised To Tell Banker It's Only Money Anyhow

If you're having any difficulty scratching up a first installment on Junior's college tuition, repairing a leak in the roof caused by those late summer storms, or keeping the bill collector from the door — don't let it worry you. Just tell your local bank that you've decided to raise your debt ceiling and need a large handful of lettuce. If he's reluctant, point out to him that the Federal government does it that way — and what is he, a John Birchler or something?

Or in friendlier fashion, you can spell it out for him so that he understands the New Economic of the New Frontier. With the Treasury deficit shooting up faster than a Thor - Agena booster, the Federal government hasn't developed any inhibitions about dipping into the trough.

Representative Richard Rouds-bush, obviously the type of man who forecloses mortgages on penniless widows, points out that "under the innocent heading of 'Mail Transportation,' a Senate appropriation actually called for the purchase of five Lincoln Continentals at $6,744 each and a Mercury Monterey for $4,173." And, he added, "Esther Peterson, one of JFK's Assistant Secretaries of Labor, has just spent $3,334 of our money on Swedish - style furnishings for her office."

So if the mail must ride in the luxury of a Lincoln Continental and Assistant Secretary Peterson must have Swedish - modern to brighten her day, why can't you? You can't afford it, but neither can the government — yet the money gets spent. Raise the debt limit another couple of billion and you're in business.

But just make sure you spread it around.

The First Lady, for example, scrapped plans for a new Executive office building — the cost $507,000—because an artist friend decided that what we needed was a cozier type of structure. (I guess it's not polite to mention the $198,808 that was spent on Mrs. Kennedy's trip to India, almost half of it for cameramen and publicity.)

And at the White House, the annual cost of servants and maintenance has jumped $143,000—to $693,000 — a good deal more than U. S. Steel's Roger Blough pays for his pad, tycoon though he be. Nobody has toted up the bill yet, but for Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy's camping trip through Washington State's Olympic Park, U. S. Park Service employees put in a full week "manicuring" the trails for the 30 pack horses carrying equipment. Bobby paid for the pack horses, but Uncle Sam paid for making his way comfortable.

But this is all small fry stuff. The big spender who sent the Federal budget through the sound barrier are the head of agencies and Federal Department. Perhaps they own real estate in Washington and need new customers for their property. Whatever the reason, they have added 131,361 people to the Federal payroll by the last count — but sometimes you need an IBM machine to keep track. And they have set their sights on bigger and bigger spending programs. As a result:

Agriculture Department spending has gone up 24 per cent, under an Administration which squeaked into office on promises of balancing the budget.

Health, Education, and Welfare has increased its annual bill to the taxpayer 52 per cent.

The Department of Commerce had added 51 per cent to its budget.

The Interior Department is putting out 49 per cent more — and this doesn't include Secretary Udall's "let me admire the Soviet Union" trip to Russia.

One agency, Housing and Home Finance, wins the prize by upping its expenditures 347 per cent. There are some people who say that if President Kennedy knew about this, he would put a stop to it. But there is a cynical gleam to their eye when they tell you, because they follow it up immediately by reminding you that Mr. Kennedy has been out of Washington more than any other President in United States history. For a comparable time in office, that is.

And as one congressman put it, "It's not all bad. There's a lot of outgo, but something comes in to Washington besides the taxpayer's dollar. Nikita Khrushchev gave the President five cases of Russian wine." It was a nice gesture — unless you've ever tasted Russian wine.

Dumping Stocks

Individual Investor Or Speculator Blamed In Big Crash

QUESTION: Whose dumping of stocks was responsible for the crash in Wall Street on Black Monday, May 28, and the following Tuesday morning — days which witnessed one of the worst market breaks of history?

ANSWER: Dumping by you, as an individual investor or speculator in stocks. It wasn't selling by the professional managers of the multi - billion dollar mutual funds; records have long been available showing the mutual funds bought on balance during that shattering collapse. Nor was it selling by the multi-billion dollar closed - end funds, the investment companies which use their own assets to buy securities of other corporations; records available today show they were both buying and selling and on balance buying. Nor was it selling by company insiders; the evidence is in today that they too were buying on balance. Nor was it heavy liquidation by other types of financial institutions; they also were on the buy side on that Monday and Tuesday. Nor was it a bear raid by foreigners; there was some selling from Hong Kong and Switzerland during those days but no "unusual activity."

You, the individual stockholder, — big and small — played a key role in bringing that financial massacre upon yourself. Before giving the fascinating facts, let me remind you that "May 28" didn't come out of nowhere. For weeks previous to Black Monday, the market had been slumping under heavy selling and the week before was particularly rough. Shareholders (the nation over) watched their profits shrinking, their losses mounting. The weekend before May 29, margin calls went out on a terrifying scale from banks and securities houses. The technical position of the stock market when it opened that Monday was downright dreadful.

Then came Monday — and since then, there has been continuing talk that institutions and insiders triggered it and the individual investor was caught in a debacle to which he contributed nothing. Today, though, statistical proof to the contrary is finally available. Today the "Exchange," monthly publication of the New York Stock, released its exclusive study of the purchases and sales in the second quarter of 25 closed - end investment companies holding assets of $3 billion. Today, the NYSE also disclosed its breakdown of odd - lot transactions.

What about the little fellow, whose odd - lot transactions on those two days accounted for over 17 per cent of the entire volume on the NYSE? On May 28 odd - lot deals totaled almost 2 million shares with sales topping purchases by a huge 267,000. On Tuesday, odd - lot deals totaled over 3 million shares with sales exceeding purchases by more than 46,000. The odd - lotters accounted for over 49 per cent of all trading in International Business Machines on Monday, over 54 per cent of all trading in IBM on Tuesday, and on both days they were heavy sellers on balance. The odd - lotters accounted for over 26 per cent of all trading in IBM on Tuesday, and on both days they were heavy sellers on balance. The odd - lotters accounted for over 26 per cent of all trading in duPont on Monday, over 37 per cent in duPont on Tuesday, and again on both days they were heavy sellers on balance.

What about insiders? The new study shows most of their transactions were heavily on the buy side with Sears Roebuck's pension fund alone buying 17,065 shares of Sears on Monday and Tuesday.

Not all the evidence is in, but enough of it to emphasize that over — all, on those black days of May 28-29, institutions were a stabilizing force.

UNICEF Aids Socialists

The United Nations, which is chiefly supported by the United States, despite a preponderance of communist - country votes, and some of its subsidiaries or conjunctive groups, is seemingly on the lookout for ways to assist questionable nations.

This was recently demonstrated anew in the case of Algeria. With in days of the announcement by Algerian leaders that they intended to create a socialist state, with close ties to Red China and Russia, the United Nations Children's Fund had ordered $670,000 in emergency aid to that country. Why a country should turn socialist if that means it immediately needs assistance for its children is a mystery.

Financial assistance was requested by the Algerian provisional government, the group of pro-communists which now dominates the strategic north African land.

UNICEF, in anticipation of the take-over, was all set to move quickly to help the socialist rulers of Algeria, for as early as July a UNICEF representative was in Algeria to study, according to the New York Times, "the settlement of displaced persons within the country and those returning from Tunisia and Morocco."

Actions of UNICEF should be borne in mind by the American people when local advocates of organization come around on Halloween to collect funds "for children," as they say. Those who believe in a free and democratic America should remember, at that time, that UNICEF is quick to rush assistance to socialist and communist countries but finds it difficult to hear the voices of children in the free world. Maybe the children in the free world are not as badly in need but, anyhow, who wants to send children's funds to our communist enemies who may be anywhere from 21 to 90 years of age?

UNICEF is presented as the most innocent of international agencies. "How could you possibly oppose a program that aims at helping children?" ask those who raise money for UNICEF. But that question—and the built-in reproach—avoids the real issue of UNICEF.

One may say that the Russian or Red Chinese governments "help children" to the extent that they supply food or medical supplies to their own populations. But that doesn't mean the American people should help pay the welfare or medical bills of the Russian or Chinese Communist governments. No one would have had the temerity to argue during World War II that the United States ought to have sent money to Nazi Germany to "help children" in the country ruled by Hitler.

It is no real help to children—and to the adults that they will become—to help fasten rulers on them that are dedicated foes of freedom. When UNICEF gives aid to "Algerian children," the net effect is to help impose a communist-type rule on Algeria. It would be of far greater lasting assistance to the innocent children of Algeria to deny assistance to the Algerian government. If the Algerian government were to collapse, then the children of that country would be truly aided.

It is this line of reasoning that is behind the American decision not to send food or money to the children of Red China. If the U.S. were to make such gifts, the barbarous communist tyranny would be in a stronger position. Thus, it is equally wrong for UNICEF to give money to the Algerians. And those Americans who contribute money to UNICEF—money that goes to Algeria—are aiding foes of freedom, the foes of the children of Algeria.

Moreover, when UNICEF money is sent to a communist country—and it has gone to such countries in past years—the money is distributed by communist officials for communist objectives. The UNICEF allotment for Algeria will include soap, vitamin capsules, whole milk powder and emergency medical supplies. One would have to be mighty naive to believe that pro-communist officials in Algeria will give any of these supplies to the hundreds of thousands of Algerians who cooperated with the French authorities. These supplies, one can be sure, will go to Algerian families that are loyal to their new socialist bosses—and to no others. Children of families who are opposed to communist domination of their countries will be left to suffer and die by the new rulers of Algeria. Thus, in giving money to Algeria, UNICEF will be helping discriminate against Algerians who are on the side of freedom.

There are many other actions of UNICEF that provide just cause for responsible citizens opposing its operations. The involvement in the financing of the U. N. war on anti-communist Katanga is in itself justification for refusing to contribute.

But the Algerian gift is a current development that should open the eyes of those who are willing to see the use to which charitable gifts are put by UNICEF officials.

It is to be hoped that Halloween this year will not be an occasion for requests for additional contributions to UNICEF in the name of "helping children." UNICEF, it can be seen, is more international politics, and against what we stand for, than for international charity.

Those citizens who want to make some charitable gift this Halloween need not become involved in the political activities of UNICEF. There are dozens of worthwhile charities in every community to which those who feel that Halloween is a time for giving can contribute.

One can help children who are in need, including those overseas, without helping pro-communist governments build new bases of strength.

Shareholders the nation over watched their profits shrinking, their losses mounting. The weekend before May 29, margin calls went out on a terrifying scale from banks and securities houses. The technical position of the stock market when it opened that Monday was downright dreadful.

Then came Monday — and since then, there has been continuing talk that institutions and insiders triggered it and the individual investor was caught in a debacle to which he contributed nothing.

Today, though, statistical proof to the contrary is finally available. Today the "Exchange," monthly publication of the New York Stock, released its exclusive study of the purchases and sales in the second quarter of 25 closed-end investment companies holding assets of $3 billion. Today, the NYSE also disclosed its breakdown of odd-lot transactions.

Bible Digest

"That I may know Him, and the power of his resurrection, and the fellowship of His suffering being made conformable unto His death." Philippians 3:10

The greatest desire of every Christian ought to be to know Christ and make Him known. A lot of people have met Him but don't know Him.

tions and insider trading in 50 selected stocks, showing what individual stockholders did during those two chaotic days when odd-lot transactions reached the highest total ever recorded.

To put the facts simply:

The closed-end funds in April-May-June bought 1,193,000 shares, sold 1,192,000 shares, a net purchase balance of roughly 1,000. Their purchases of blocks of 10,000 shares or more totaled 842,000 shares and covered 31 issues, their major sales totaled 714,000 shares and covered 26 issues. More specifically, five funds bought Eastern Kodak during this period while five funds sold U. S. Steel. Clearly, the funds were as the "Exchange" puts it, making "extensive and highly selective portfolio adjustments," and that is hardly dumping.

What about the little fellow, whose odd-lot transactions on those two days accounted for over 17 per cent of the entire volume on the NYSE? On May 28 odd-lot deals totaled almost 2 million shares with sales topping purchases by a huge 267,000. On Tuesday, odd-lot deals totaled over 3 million shares with sales exceeding purchases by more than 46,000. The odd-lotters accounted for over 49 per cent of all trading in International Business Machines on Monday, over 54 per cent of all trading in IBM on Tuesday, and on both days they were heavy sellers on balance. The odd-lotters accounted for over 26 per cent of all trading in IBM on Tuesday, and on both days they were heavy sellers on balance. The odd-lotters accounted for over 26 per cent of all trading in duPont on Monday, over 37 per cent in duPont on Tuesday, and again on both days they were heavy sellers on balance.

What about insiders? The new study shows most of their transactions were heavily on the buy side with Sears Roebuck's pension fund alone buying 17,065 shares of Sears on Monday and Tuesday.

Not all the evidence is in, but enough of it to emphasize that over — all, on those black days of May 28-29, institutions were a stabilizing force.

Plan Announced For Evacuation Of Natchez Area

Plans for the possible evacuation of up to 80,000 people in Louisiana and Mississippi were announced Friday in Washington as meetings were held on both sides of the Mississippi River over attempts to raise 1,100 tons of liquefied chlorine gas from the Mississippi River near Natchez, Miss. Meanwhile, the U. S. Public Health Service reported that 20,000 gas masks and 15,000 cots and blankets are being sent into the Natchez, Miss., area.

The Red Cross is setting up a number of canteens. A packed courtroom at the Concordia Parish courthouse in Vidalia heard a discussion of the situation. Jury President S. L. Winslow Jr. said officials are attempting to inform the public to keep down panic.

And Natchez Mayor John Nossner said gas masks are ready for use but that there is no reason as yet for alerting persons in the area to use them. The masks have not been passed out.

A spokesman for the Public Health Service said that the chlorine went down with a barge back in March 23, 1961 and is under 60 feet of water. He said it does not constitute a hazard to navigation and that the chlorine presumably could remain under water indefinitely without hazard. He offered no comments on why the Army deems it necessary to raise the chlorine.

At Natchez, Carl Dyer, acting public information director of the Mississippi Civil Defense Council, said the release of the information out of Washington was "prematuring." He said there is no cause for alarm. He offered no further comment for publication.

A spokesman for the Public Health Service's division of air pollution said that if the gas should escape through accident or planned salvage operation, "it could kill up to 40,000 people if the wind was blowing in the right direction."

The barge carrying the chlorine sank at a point about seven and one-half miles south of Natchez while its approximate location has been known all along by the Coast Guard, its exact location was not pinpointed until last week. Navy airplanes did it, with electronic equipment.

The service spokesman said the Army Corps of Engineers had "several schemes" for raising the vessel, and he added that the Army feels that any salvage attempt must be made before Dec. 1 before high waters might make it impossible.

Army engineers will handle the job of attempting to raise the chlorine which is in three sealed tanks. Under pressure, the chlorine is in liquid form but would boil out as gas if one of the tanks ruptured.

Health officials said the feeling is that there will not be any accident during the salvage operations, but that plans are being made on the possibility that one might occur, however remote that possibility might be.

Officials said it was first planned to attempt to raise the barge with its cargo but that it has now been determined that the vessel itself has buckled and that salvage operations will be concentrated on retrieving the tanks of chlorine, leaving the barge on the river bottom.

Health Service officials said at a special news conference that the potential danger area is 25 by 30 miles and includes three counties in Mississippi, including Natchez, and three parishes in Louisiana. The Louisiana parishes are Tensas, Concordia and Catahoula. The Mississippi counties are Adams, Jefferson and Wilkinson.

The Public Health Service said it believed that the people in the area near the barge were still not sufficiently aware of the potential hazard involved in a salvage operation. A spokesman declared the planned salvage operation, "it could kill up to 40,000 people if the wind was blowing in the right direction."

Mayor Nossner said that evacuation of Natchez would be carried out if necessary. He said city, county and state authorities would be in a position to evacuate as many as necessary of those who have no way or means of moving out of the area.

Nossner said a meeting was held Friday "to provide means and ways of salvaging chlorine gas without endangering the health and security of our people."

Chlorine is used as a powerful bleaching, oxidizing and disinfecting agent, for extracting metals from ores, in water purification, in medicine and in other ways.

It is an essential ingredient of most war gases and when inhaled in quantity is poisonous. In a gaseous state, it is greenish-yellow and irritating, emitting a suffocating odor.

Winslow said that chlorine is still being transported in the Mississippi.

WINNSBORO (Special) — A telegram from the Franklin Parish chapter of the Ku Klux Klan to Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett was put into Morning World correspondent Otis Hassell's automobile Friday.

The telegram was a copy of one sent to the governor commending him for his stand against allowing Negro James Meredith to enter the University of Mississippi.

Hassell, also employed by the circulation department of the Monroe paper, said he had parked his car on Common Street next to the railroad and went across the street to collect money for newspapers.

He said when he returned he found the telegram on the front seat under the steering wheel.

The telegram read:

"We wish to commend you, your administration and the citizens of Mississippi on your splendid fight against integration and the federal government."

"It is evident that we in Louisiana do not have the leadership needed to assist in our fight for states rights. The Southern people need more men like you. And many thanks."

It was signed, "Franklin Parish Chapter KKK."

Hassell said he verified that the telegram was authentic by contacting the telegraph office here. Hassell said the incident gave him a "spooky" feeling.

DURING TUNNEL ESCAPE

Crying Children Almost Disaster

BERLIN (UPI)—The crying of six frightened children nearly spelled disaster for 29 persons who staged the greatest mass of the tunnel in a West Berlin escape under the Berlin wall last weekend, engineers of the tunnel operation disclosed Friday.

West Berlin engineering students who built the elaborate tunnel escape route also revealed that flooding from a broken water main threatened to wash out the flight operation.

The inside story of the underground escape was told by the student organizers Friday in the West German Newspaper Bild Zeitung.

The students said that six children among the refugees began to cry loudly just as the flight party entered the East Berlin end of the 120-yard long tunnel to West Berlin under the anti-refugee wall.

The 23 adults in the group held their breath, afraid the whimpers might have been heard by Communist police patrolling just 20 yards from the tunnel mouth.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A man wants to marry me and I am undecided. I LIKE him very much but I don't LOVE him. I was married for six years to a man I LOVED but didn't LIKE. He took off and left me with four children and $2,000 in debts. I divorced him. The man who wants to marry me is 40. He is a prosperous farmer and the kindest man I've ever known. He is willing to be a good father to my children and pay off my debts. I am only 29. Is this too young to live without love?

DEAR UNDECIDED: Instead of the word "like" — SUBSTITUTE "respect and admire." And for "love" — "physically attracted to." Your chances for happiness, in my opinion, are better with a man you respect and admire. You'd be surprised how easy it is to love a man who is good to you. Marry the farmer and everything will come up roses.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell my wife how foolish she is to put her name and address on her key chain? I tried to tell her that if she lost her house keys, whoever found them would know right where to go to rob her. She thinks some honest soul will return them to her just because her name and address are on it. Or am I wrong in wanting to take no chances?

DEAR ED: You're right — although the majority of finders are not keepers. It pays to take no chances.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26 and my husband is 27. We have been married for five years and here is my problem. I love to dance but my husband doesn't. He knows how to dance and he is a good dancer, but he doesn't like to dance. I knew this before we were married but I thought he would change. How can I get him to dance?

DEAR LOVES: If dancing is such an important part of your life, you should have married a tango dancer. You could probably get your husband on his feet by begging, insisting or nagging, but why bother if he doesn't enjoy it? Get off his back.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CAN'T GO HOME": Send me your name and address and I will send you a list of homes of unwed mothers in your area at once. Yes, some of them are free, and you will be cared for confidentially.

Unload your problem on Abby. For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

Jonesboro Nips Rebs 12-6 In Last Seconds

Jim Gregory, a speedy little guard, grabbed a West Monroe fumble with only 38 seconds remaining in the game and raced 35 yards to set up a touchdown that gave Jonesboro a 12-6 victory over the winless Rebels.

The winning touchdown, which came on the last play of the game, was almost anticlimactic to the dazzling play by Gregory.

Gregory's tremendous and alert effort gave Jonesboro the ball on West Monroe's 10-yard line from where it took three thrilling plays and a penalty before the Tigers pushed over the score, with halfback Alden Reeves skirting left end from five yards out for the touchdown.

The whistle sounded ending the game as he crossed the goal line. Gregory would have gone all the way for the score himself had it not been for a superlative effort on the part of another guard, Roger Bell of West Monroe, who downed him on the 10.

With the clock still running following Gregory's run, the Tigers quickly threw an incomplete pass to stop the clock with 11 seconds to go.

On second down, quarterback Phil Marrus attempted a pass to Reeves in the right flat. The Rebels committed pass interference on the play and the ball was put on the five-yard line with six seconds left.

Then with one final effort the Tigers called Reeves' number and the 175-pound senior responded with his game-winning run.

So much pandemonium broke loose following the score that Jonesboro didn't even try the extra point.

Even without the final score by Jonesboro, the game could have easily been classified as the top game of the Monroe area so far this season.

The two teams fought on even terms the entire contest.

Until the final seconds of play, it looked as if the game was going to be wrapped up in the initial half.

Each team owned six points and almost as evenly, each team owned one quarter.

West Monroe dominated the opening period, and the Tigers stormed back to control the second.

West Monroe took the opening kickoff and rammed their way for three first downs before finally relinquishing the ball on Jonesboro's 28 yardline.

The Rebels went on to run 18 plays the first quarter while Jonesboro only had the ball for seven attempts.

The Rebels' TD, which came on the opening play of the second quarter, was a beauty which covered 68 yards.

Quarterback Jim Colvin faked deep and hit halfback Charlie Van Zile in the right flat on a screen pass.

Van Zile, who played his best game of the season, took the ball on his own 32, picked up a couple of good blocks, and then turned on the speed to give West Monroe a 6-0 lead 10 seconds deep in the second quarter.

Fullback Bobby Brice was stopped short of the goal on the extra point attempt.

Jonesboro was not calling it quits though. The hustling, hard-hitting Tigers came back to tie the score, 6-6, with 3:37 remaining in the half.

Following West Monroe's touchdown, the Tigers moved the ball from their 28 to the Rebels 49 before losing the ball on a fumble.

It only delayed the Tigers for seconds though as Jim Jones, another outstanding performer the entire contest, intercepted a Reb pass to give Jonesboro possession on its 24.

From here the Tigers cranked up their offense and plowed down for the tying score.

Jonesboro had to score twice before it counted after suffering a backfield-in-motion penalty on the first.

Fullback Robert Marrus scored from the 18 on the TD which was called back.

Not to be denied, the Tigers completed a fourth down pass on the 19 for the score.

The payoff play came from the arm of junior signal-caller Phil Marrus to halfback Jones. Marrus' attempted kick for the PAT was short.

The called-back tally was only a preview of what was to come for Jonesboro.

The Tigers had two more scores canceled, one in the third period and one in the fourth.

In the third, Reeves broke loose from his own 35 and galloped all the way, only to have it called back by and placed on the 49 where he was said to have stepped out of bounds.

Then in the last quarter, quarterback Marrus hit end Johnny Garlington with a scoring pass from the nine. But the score was no good as a penalty against Jonesboro was called.

Both teams played with tremendous effort the entire contest. It was easily West Monroe's finest game thus far, and was Jonesboro's third winning performance of the year.

Each team had plenty of defensive stars, but of course only one will be remembered in years to come—Little Jim Gregory the pint-sized linebacker who led his Tiger teammates to victory.

Tulane's score, also, as a Stanford fumble set up the Greenie field goal.

End Frank Patitucci dropped Miller's wobbly 23-yard punt on the Indians' 36 and Greenie end Clem Dellenger pounced on the ball.

Bob Boisvert, a 19-year-old spring practice whiz, moved the Green Wave to the Stanford three in four quick thrusts.

The sophomore clicked on a 15-yard flat pass to halfback Terry Terrebone. Two plays later Boisvert pitched out to Terrebone and sent him scampering 11 yards to the three.

When the Greenies bogged down, halfback Gordon Rush split the uprights from the 11.

Allan Curr was the big ground gainer for the Indians, picking up 64 yards in 12 carries. For the Greenies, Russ Galiano was high man with 25 yards in eight carries.

Weaver, touted as a coming signal caller, passed only three times during the game with one completion. But he showed a cool head, particularly when the going was rough for the Indians.

Miller clicked on three of seven passes and Boisvert, looking a little shaky in his first start, hit on only one of six tosses. But the Alexandria product engineered the drive that brought the only Green Wave score.

BEATS 'NEW LOOK' Stanford Squeaks Past Greenies, 6-3

By DAVID ZIMMAN
NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Big-beefy Stanford rubbed the luster off Tulane's "new look" Friday night as halfback J. D. Lodato shook loose on a fourth-quarter touchdown sprint to down the Greenies 6-3.

Until then, the Greenies had led 3-0 on a 21-yard field goal by halfback Gordon Rush.

For three quarters the Greenies—employing a "new look" lonely end attack and five starting sophomores—had outlasted a Stanford line outweighing them 20 pounds to the man.

But early in the final stanza, Greenie quarterback Ted Miller fumbled and Stanford recovered on Tulane's 48.

Three plays later, Lodato, a 184-pound 19-year-old sophomore, dashed around end from the 30. He broke into the clear on the 20, sidestepped one Greenie tackler, and went all the way.

The Stanford victory spoiled the debut of Tulane Coach Tommy O'Boyle, who took over last year from boss Andy Pilney after a dismal 2-8 season.

The Greenies grabbed the kickoff and marched 63 yards in five plays to the Stanford four. Jerry Graves bulled for 16 and 9, Jerry Raymond for 19 and Miller for 15 in the drive.

But on the four, the Greenies ran out of gas and a fourth-down field goal attempt from the 11 was short.

A fumble played a key role in the 175-pound senior responded with his game-winning run.

So much pandemonium broke loose following the score that Jonesboro didn't even try the extra point.

Harris Sweeps Into Last Round

LABRON HARRIS JR. hits from a bunker in the rough along the fourth fairway during a semifinal match with Billy Joe Patton in the National Amateur Golf Tournament at Pinehurst, N. C. Friday. After shooting an eight on the hole, Harris, of Stillwater, Okla., pulled his game together and held a 3-up lead after the morning round. (AP Wirephoto)

Beats Patton 3 And 1; Will Take On Gray

By DON WEISS
PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Labron Harris Jr., a fuzz-cheeked mathematics wizard from Oklahoma, counted 10 and out over heavily favored Billy Joe Patton Friday and swept into the finals of the 62nd U.S. Amateur Golf Championship against insurance salesman Downing Gray of Pensacola, Fla.

The 20-year-old Harris, 6-3, 185-pound power-hitting son of the Oklahoma State U. golf coach, fought off one Patton charge after another and scored a 3 and 1 victory over the 40-year-old Morgan, N.C., lumberman, who was making his 13th try for the national championship he's never won.

Gray, 24-year-old Florida State U. graduate who plays golf only on weekends "because I'm just starting in business and don't have the time or money to play more," built a 7 up lead after 25 holes, then held off the desperate rally of Air Force Lt. Charles Cuddy of Fort Worth, Tex., 3 and 2.

Harris, who holds a bachelors degree in math at Oklahoma State despite his tender age, built a three-hole lead over Patton, the Far Heel favorite, on the morning 18 holes. He blew it all at the start of the afternoon round, and then fought back brilliantly after Patton once again had challenged him on the pressure-packed closing holes.

Two down after 30 holes, Patton reached into his golf bag, plucked out his battered old white hat he had neglected all day, slapped it on his head, and knocked in a birdie and a par on the next two to even the match. With only four holes left in the scheduled 36-hole test, it looked as if Patton had finally unnerved the youngster.

But young Harris promptly won the 33rd with a par 3, the 34th with a birdie 4 when Billy Joe hit into the trees — where he spent most of the morning round — and put away the graying North Carolina on the 35th with a par 3 when Patton hit his tee shot into a trap and just managed to get the fringe of the green with his explosion shot.

Gray, a 5-10, 145-pounder who says, without conceit, "I can play with the best of them when I play often enough," took a 3 up lead on the 25-year-old Cuddy after the morning round, built it quickly to seven and then, as he put it: "Like a fool, I figured — well, that was it. I relaxed and before I knew it I had a match on my hands again. Maybe someday I'll learn."

Cuddy, a strapping 6-1, 190-pound father of a two-week-old daughter, won three straight holes — after a pair of birdies and a par — and suddenly it was down to a four-hole deficit. Gray won the 30th to go 5-up again, but back came the lieutenant who drove so poorly all day he said "I haven't played golf like this in years."

Cuddy won the 31st and 32nd to cut the margin to three, but there his rally — and Gray's easing up — ended. Downing, whose full name is Albert Downing Gray, matched Cuddy's pars on the next two holes and closed out the match.

So it'll be a couple of youngsters who've met on their golf travels only once before in Saturday's 36-hole championship match at the

RAYMOND HORTON prepares for today's weightlifting meet at the YMCA on Glenmar Avenue by Pressing 225 pounds on the "Y" isometric contraction rack. The second annual meet is slated to get underway at 2 p.m. in the organization's gym. Horton was runner-up in last year's physique contest held in conjunction with the first annual weightlifting contest.

TODAY

Local 'Y' Slates Contest In Lifting

The Twin Cities YMCA kicks off its second annual "north Louisiana" weightlifting contest today at the "Y" gym on Glenmar Avenue beginning at 2 p.m.

The lifting meet will be broken down into brackets based on the contestants' weights. Light and light-heavy lifters will get the meet off the ground to start the contest with the heavyweight divisions beginning at 7 p.m.

A physique contest will follow the weightlifting competition. Teams from throughout the state are expected to participate in today's meet. The local YMCA team will play host to teams from Shreveport, New Orleans and Lafayette.

A strong-armed Lafayette team came out on top in last year's contest by taking four of the seven individual lifting events.

7,051-yard, par 36-36-72 No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club. It also is one more indication of the way collegiate golf has grown in recent years in producing the nation's new players.

Both Harris and Gray are veterans of collegiate competition — although neither has won any title of significance. Harris has been well schooled by his father, Labron Sr., who still shows up now and then on the pro tour. He has what they call a "pro swing" and is a remarkable putter for one so young.

Gray, whose father died during World War II when an Allied submarine sank a Japanese freighter on which he was being transported as a prisoner of war, has been playing golf since he was nine. His uncle, the well-known senior golfer, Ellis Knowles, has encouraged his game for years. Knowles gave him an old Scottish putter, now well taped, which he still uses.

Harris, a scholarly-looking straight "A" student who wears horn-rimmed glasses, will be 21 next week.

None of the four players distinguished themselves with their medal play. Harris was 6-over-par for the 35 holes his match lasted, while Gray was 10 over. Patton wound up 7-over-par, and Cuddy — who had been only 4-over-par for six previous rounds in the week-long tournament — ballooned to 11 over for 34 holes.

Louisiana State Hosts Texas Aggies Tonight

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Louisiana State enters its 1962 football opener against revived Texas A&M here Saturday night wondering if its traditionally-tough defense will hold up and what to expect from the Aggies. These and other opening night questions will be answered in this 26th renewal of the Tiger-Aggie rivalry before a capacity crowd of 67,500 in Tiger Stadium. Kickoff time is 8 p.m. Both teams usher in the new campaign with new coaches. LSU's new head man, Charles McClendon, says the Tigers may be stronger on offense this fall, but will be weaker on defense. Hank Foldberg was famous for

DODGERS DEFEATED

Wills One Steal Shy Of Cobb Mark

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Los Angeles' Maury Wills drew within one of Ty Cobb's record 96 steals but the St. Louis Cardinals crushed the first-place Dodgers 11-2 Friday night as Charley James hit a grand-slam homer off Sandy Koufax and the Redbirds backed Curt Simmons with a seven-run inning. Koufax, counted on for help in the stretch drive, failed to last an inning, walking four.

The Dodgers had gone into the tilt four games ahead of second-place San Francisco, which had a game at Houston.

Wills stole a base in the sixth inning to boost his season total to 95 in 154 games. Cobb set his mark of 96 in a total of 156 games, including two tries, in 1915.

Commissioner Ford Frick has said he will rule later on the dispute over the number of games Wills would have to get credit for a record. Frick earlier had said 154 decisions would be the yardstick.

Koufax, now 14-6, was sidelined more than two months with a circulatory ailment of the index finger on his left hand. He walked

Phillies Defeat Cincinnati 8-6

On Come Back

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies overcame a five-run deficit Friday night to defeat the Cincinnati Reds 8-6.

Don Demeter's 27th homer of the season with one on plus three singles good for another run in the seventh, enabled the Phillies to come from behind.

In the process of gaining their 15th victory in the last 20 games, the Phillies saddled right-hander Joey Jay with his 14th setback in 35 decisions. The Reds ruined Art Mahaffey's bid to become a 20-game winner. Jack Baldschun, who came on the scene in the seventh inning was the winner.

Giants Pick Colts Pitchers For 11-5 Win

HOUSTON (AP) — The San Francisco Giants battered five Houston pitchers for 18 hits, including four by Willie Mays, and kept alive their slim National League pennant hopes with an 11-5 triumph over the Colts Friday night.

The victory, along with St. Louis' 11-2 conquest of leading Los Angeles, cut the Dodgers' margin to three games. The Giants and Dodgers each have eight games left. Any combination of six Dodger victories and Giant losses will secure the pennant for Los Angeles.

The Giant victory was only their second in nine starts on their current road trip.

Mays had three singles and a double in four trips to the plate, scored twice and drove in three runs in leading the potent Giant attack. He left after 6½ innings with San Francisco safely out in front 11-2. Chuck Hiller and Felipe Alou each had three hits, and every Giant starter had at least one.

The Giants wasted little time in putting it out of reach. They exploded for six runs on as many hits in the third inning, which gave Gaylord Perry an 8-0 lead. He struggled through to his third victory against a single loss, but needed help from Stu Miller when the Colts rallied for three runs in the ninth.

Spahn's 8-Hitter Tops Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Southpaw Warren Spahn of Milwaukee won his 16th game Friday night, twirling an eight-hitter as the Braves defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-5.

The Braves broke a 2-2 tie and chased Pirates' starter Alvin McBean in the sixth when they scored four runs on four singles and a pair of wild pitches by relief hurler Jack Lamabe. Joe Adcock hit a two-run homer for the Braves in the fourth.

Arrangement Of Furniture New Trend In Decorating

By BETTY PEPIS
One of the very newest trends in interior decoration has to do with the arrangement of furniture. In one case, a very modern house, a glass wall, which did that's something any amateur decorator might try: to update her room with the addition of nothing extra, except perhaps a willing man who will co-operate in the project of moving and brass bedstead was pulled away showing. Of course, once she gets the new arrangement may floor - to - ceiling arrangement inspire her to add a piece or two, of the owners floral prints.

The best way to explain this new approach to placement is to call it "floating furniture," for in these new arrangements most of the furniture in a room sits away from the walls and in the center of the space.

The resulting look is surprisingly airy, the lanes of empty space around the arrangement lend a sense of space. It is also cozy and pieces included in it often form the most satisfactory type of conversational grouping, one in which conversationalists need not scream across chasm of space at one another.

We've seen this done with great style in a room which might otherwise have been difficult to handle: a large, exceptionally long living room which was divided into three islands of furniture, one end, on a second rug, was a round table for dining. The center of attention was captured by the conversational group, which occupied a rectangular rug. Neither sofa nor chairs, here, were backed against a wall.

Arrangement Of Furniture New Trend In Decorating

By BETTY PEPIS
One of the very newest trends in interior decoration has to do with the arrangement of furniture and that's something any amateur decorator might try: to update her room with the addition of nothing extra, except perhaps a willing man who will co-operate in the project of moving and shoving. Of course, once she gets the new arrangement may inspire her to add a piece or two.

The best way to explain this new approach to placement is to call it "floating furniture," for in these new arrangements most of the furniture in a room sits away from the walls and in the center of the space.

The resulting look is surprisingly airy, the lanes of empty space around the arrangement lend a sense of space. It is also cozy and pieces included in it often form the most satisfactory type of conversational grouping, one in which conversationalists need not scream across chasm of space at one another.

We've seen this done with great style in a room which might otherwise have been difficult to handle: a large, exceptionally long living room which was divided into three islands of furniture, one end, on a second rug, was a round table for dining. The center of attention was captured by the conversational group, which occupied a rectangular rug. Neither sofa nor chairs, here, were backed against a wall. In one case, a very modern house, a glass wall, which divided "her" bedroom from "his," made it both impractical and unattractive to place the bed directly against the wall.

In a second case, a Victorian brass bedstead was pulled away from the wall to leave room for a floor - to - ceiling arrangement of the owners floral prints.

In the third case, the bed was centered to leave the long walls free for storage, which was hidden behind sliding doors.

A stiff - bristled vegetable brush, dipped into hot soap or detergent suds, will remove encrusted food particles from the deep grooves of hardwood steak and fish planks.

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have and one that "gets dull," send me a booklet, "What to Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

My hurt has been long healed. Mother lost all my love and respect when I first learned of her affair. She is still carrying on with the same man after all these years and dad continues to be deaf, dumb and blind.

I think he is a fool to let her get away with this. I've tried to get him to divorce mother and find a decent woman who could give him the happiness he is entitled to but he refuses to listen. Maybe if he saw your advice he would take it. And perhaps if my mother saw it she would realize what she has done to all of us. JERRY

DEAR JERRY: Neither your dad nor your mother wrote for advice so I have none for them—but I do have some for you. Your mother doesn't deserve any good conduct medals, but your behavior is also unspeakable.

There's an outside chance that you don't know all the facts relating to your mother's behavior—or your father's either. So why don't you put away that pitchfork, Sis, and let your parents work out their problems as best they can?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am allowing a trivial matter to assume serious proportions and it may wreck my marriage. Please say something to set me on the right track.

Several months ago I married a widower. I was a widow. We've known each other for many years. Everything was fine until I learned he gets part of his mail at his daughter's home.

I can think of no reason for this except a few dividend checks which he turns over to his children. He has told me about the dividends but they don't amount to much. I have money of my own and I don't need his.

Twice I have suggested he receive M.I. his mail at our home, but he continues to use his daughter's mailing address. What shall I do now? D.W.

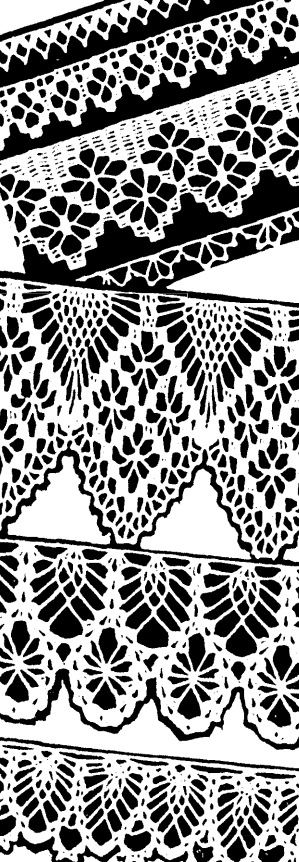

DEAR D.W.: Now forget it. The first sentence of your letter describes the situation beautifully. Don't cut off head to cure a headache.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SICK OF IT? Why don't you substitute a backbone for that wishbone and tell her you are no longer going to be a doormat and a cash-register?

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR POLLS: Most of us give our own manicures. At least I do. I can't afford to have mine done. But about once a year, we go hog wild and go to a beauty shop and get "the works." I just did.

But I sure got my money's worth. I talked and asked questions till I captured some top secrets to share with you. Namely: Why manicures last so long when professionally done.

Here are some basic rules that were given to me:

Nails are composed of horny layers of dead cells held together by the substance called keratin. Nails tend to split and peel when this is destroyed by detergents or constant pounding such as typing. Sometimes illness or drugs taken internally can affect the nails also. Fingernails should be kept as uniformly as possible. Most should be kept oval or round for the some jobs such as typing, etc. Otherwise, they should be tapered but never should be filed to a sharp point.

Nails need not be conspicuous long to be beautiful. Uniformity of length and soft, pliable looking cuticles are what give hands true appeal.

Don't neglect nails and cuticles for weeks at a time and suddenly work with a vengeance!

Forcing the cuticle back by using too much pressure can cause injury such as inflammation at the base of the nail or dents and white spots. Long neglect and over-ambition could defeat the entire purpose.

Keep nails smooth at all times with an emery board.

Use glycerine, cuticle remover or lotion and massage around the cuticle, gently and gradually pushing it back. Avoid over-friction.

If cuticles are very tight and cling to the base of the nails, soak in warm vinegar water (half and half) for five minutes. Then apply glycerine and rub with a blunt orange stick.

If there are hang nails (broken skin) trim them with cuticle scissors and be sure to trim as close as possible.

Remember, the cuticle around should be kept oval or round for the some jobs such as typing, etc. Otherwise, they should be tapered but never should be filed to a sharp point.

When the cuticle is cut away the skin rolls back and causes more hang nails! Never cut cuticles unless absolutely necessary. Rinse nails with warm water, gently rub them dry, and then apply nail polish.

Before applying nail polish.

take a small piece of cotton, dip in vinegar (yep, plain old household vinegar) and wipe each fingernail. This will not only leave the nails absolutely clean but will make them more pliable and the polish will adhere to the nails longer.

If you can't apply colored fingernail polish neatly, it is far better to use clear polish and use a white pencil under the nails. Wet before using.

Correct procedure for applying why we can't have good nails. polish is: One base coat (that's the white clear stuff, gals) two coats of polish and one top coat. This is the accepted method to make yourself feel good... with day and it is agreed that the polish will last longer.

And here's another hint that this!

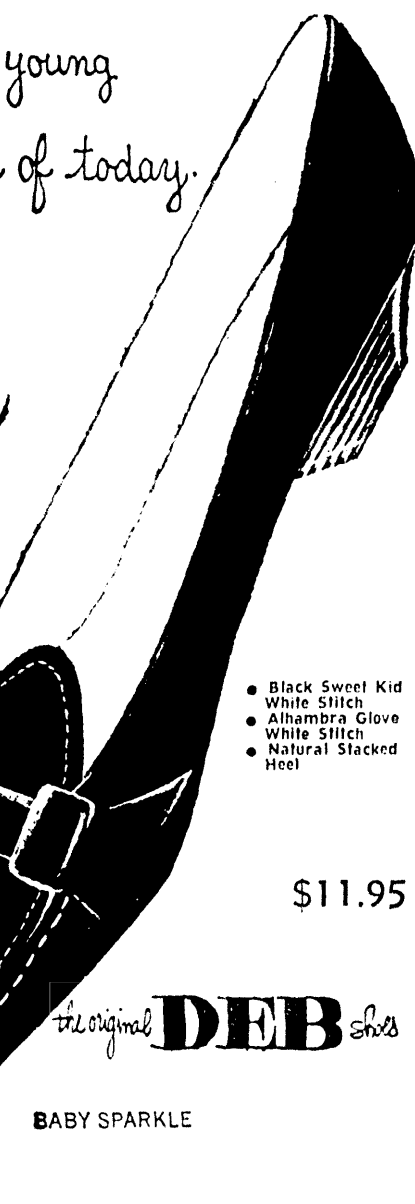

professional manicurist threw in! If women would apply a little glycerine (this can be bought at any drugstore) on the hands and massage it in well before applying hand cream or lotions, the results will be amazing.

To remove the "sticky" feeling after applying the glycerine... Just run a little water over the hands and pat them lightly with a soft towel. This will leave the hands soft and smooth for hours.

And, gals, there's no reason why we can't have good nails. The dime stores are loaded with the white clear stuff, gals) two tools and stuff to do them with. Quite inexpensive too. Brace up. This is the accepted method to make yourself feel good... with day and it is agreed that the professional manicure that costs you practically nothing!

take a small piece of cotton, dip in vinegar (yep, plain old household vinegar) and wipe each fingernail. This will not only leave the nails absolutely clean but will make them more pliable and the polish will adhere to the nails longer.

If you can't apply colored fingernail polish neatly . . . it is far better to use clear polish and use a white pencil under the nails. Wet before using.

Correct procedure for applying polish is: One base coat (that's the white clear stuff, gals) two coats of polish and one top coat. This is the accepted method today and it is agreed that the polish will last longer.

And here's another hint that this professional manicurist threw in!

If women would apply a little glycerine (this can be bought at any drugstore) on the hands and massage it in well before applying hand cream or lotions, the results will be amazing.

To remove the "sticky" feeling after applying the glycerine . . . just run a little water over the hands and pat them lightly with a soft towel. This will leave the hands soft and smooth for hours.

And, gals, there's no reason why we can't have good nails. The dime stores are loaded with tools and stuff to do them with. Quite inexpensive too. Brace up, make yourself feel good . . . with a professional manicure that costs you practically nothing!

Love, HELOISE

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Date Is Slated For Sentencing Man At Rayville

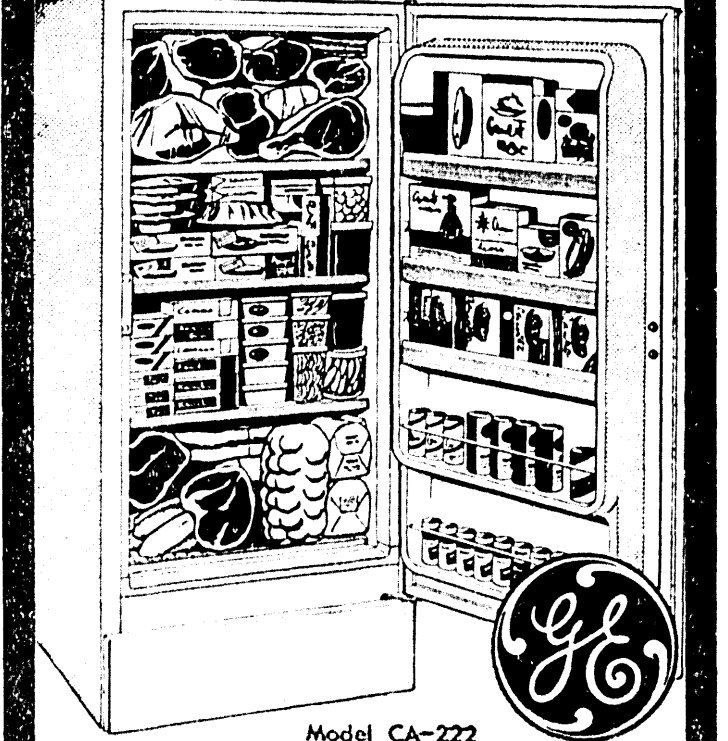

RAYVILLE (Special) — Sen. Francisco, a longtime California labor leader who now is director of the State Industrial Relations Department, to be undersecretary of labor.

Francisco will take the spot left by the promotion of W. Willard Wirtz to the Cabinet position. Wirtz was named after Kennedy chose former Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg for a Supreme Court appointment.

The announcement of the choice of Francisco was made by the act- ing presidential press secretary, Andrew T. Hatcher, after an airport briefing here following Kennedy's arrival by helicopter from Newport, R.I., for a visit with his father.

Traffic Cases Highlight Day In City Court

Minor traffic violations dominated Monroe city court Friday with Judge W. M. Harper taking action on 47 cases against 45 persons.

In major cases, Billy J. Johnson, 23, 207 Walters Lane, West Monroe, was fined $425 and costs or seven months in jail for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

Will Carter Jr., 30, Negro, of 1244 Rear DeSard, was fined $500 and costs or nine months in jail plus a six-month compulsory jail term for theft.

Janice Smith, 34, Negro, 706 S. 14th St., Monroe, was sentenced for 90 days in jail for theft.

Action was also taken on two disturbing the peace cases, and three charges of damage to property.

Remaining action was on minor traffic violations.

Danti Is Named District Officer

Dr. August Danti of the Northeast State College faculty has been elected secretary-treasurer of the Fifth District Louisiana Pharmaceutical Association.

He succeeds Mike Napoli, who resigned.

The association elected Wirt Rodgers of Bastrop to succeed Dr. Danti on its board of directors. With President Wilfred Scroggins of Jonesboro presiding, the elections were conducted Thursday night at the Highland Park Country Club.

Judge Shortens Woman's Term

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Lillian Frantantonio, central figure in Cleveland's "sleeping beauties" case two years ago, will not have to serve the remainder of her year's workhouse sentence, a judge ruled Friday.

Judge Albert A. Woldman of Cuyahoga County Juvenile Court lifted the sentence, restored custody of the children to the tiny, dark-haired mother, and held in abeyance a fine of $500 and costs.

ENCEPHALITIS TOLL RISES

BRANDT, ADENAUER MEET

CADENABRIA, Italy (UPI)—West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt met with vacationing West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Friday for an assessment of Berlin issue before Brandt's forthcoming trip to Washington.

Rutledge Sought For Board Post

The Ouachita Parish legislative delegation will ask the appointment of J. A. Rutledge to a post representing ward eight on the parish school board, Sen. James Adcock of Monroe said Friday.

If accepted by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis, Rutledge of route three, West Monroe, would succeed Harry Wheeler who resigned to become superintendent of buildings and grounds for the parish system. His term has about four years to run.

"We have agreed on the appointment at the request of many interested parties," commented Adcock.
